Opera was founded in 1989 and has since been publishing market leading titles of Greek and world fiction and non-fiction for adults and children, poetry, drama, crime fiction, essays and psychology. In the course of years past, we have specialized in high quality translations of foreign literature, mostly coming from Latin America and Spain, but also from France, USA, UK and Italy among others. Our list includes high profile names of international culture such as Luis Sepúlveda, Daniel Chavarría, Jorge Bucay, Francisco Coloane, Carlo Frabetti, Éric-Emmanuel Schmitt, Hervé Le Tellier, Raymond Queneau, Roland Topor, Alfred Jarry, Robert Fischer and Ambrose Bierce among many others.

Opera is credited for delivering quality literature and has a track record for publishing stylish titles that reflect our attention to detail regarding both content and materials. We consider every part of the publishing process (editorial, design, marketing & publicity, retail strategy) as highly important and therefore invest significantly in each of them not only financially, but with a unique level of personal involvement as well.

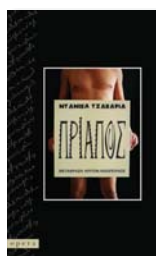

Our team's love for books and their dedication to publishing literature that they personally appreciate constitute the elements that identify our publications.

Our eternal aim is to publish exciting literature and essays with flair and enthusiasm, while delivering high level results for our authors and customers. We pride ourselves in treating all of our titles, our team, our authors, partners and agents and most of all our readers with great attention and care.
